

Local company named one of nation's largest residential concrete contractors

INDIO, Calif. – March 8, 2007 – Desert Commercial Concrete, a Williams Company, has been named one of the largest residential concrete contractors in the United States by Residential Concrete magazine. The announcement was made at the World of Concrete industry convention recently held in Las Vegas.

According to the magazine, Desert Commercial Concrete (formerly Desert Communities Concrete) ranked fifth among residential concrete contractors in the United States, and third among those in California.

In response to the recognition, Diane Williams, owner and president, said: “It is gratifying to be recognized for the growth we’ve accomplished over the past 15 years. I think it shows what you can do when you focus on quality and building a good reputation.”

Desert Commercial Concrete and Milmark Painting together make up The Williams Companies. Both are the largest firms in their fields headquartered in the Coachella Valley. With offices and facilities in Indio, California, the companies provide contracted concrete and painting services to production home builders, custom home builders, homeowner associations, and commercial builders of office, retail, and industrial projects.
